Why do I need an adapter?

For some motorcycle models an additional adapter might be necessary for a reliable and safe Scottoiler installation.

Should an adapter be required you will find the information in the product compatibility section of the model-specific guide.

If no additional adapter is mentioned you are all set for the installation on your bike.

How to get the installation adapter

1. The installation adapters are available if you are buying a Scottoiler system or accessory and the part is required for installation.
2. Your Scottoiler dealer or workshop should have stock of most adapters and will be happy to supply you with any adapters.

3. If your workshop does not have the adapter please contact Scottoiler and we will help you out.
4. Spare/replacement adapters can be purchased from your Scottoiler re-seller.

Making the installation even easier

Your Scottoiler re-seller and workshop will have a number of installation adapters in stock. Check the model-specific installation guides before buying and ask your Scottoiler dealer to add the installation adapter to your order. That way you can start straight away with the installation.

If you have any other questions or problems please do not hesitate to get in touch with us.
